

In response to Jody Chapel

Altered Synchrony

Scattered blue colder than the earth.
Scattered in larva soon to burst forth.
Frozen, yet still hoping for rebirth
If I had only known in my heart
It would change,
But me, the perpetual person of positive things
See a larva allegedly trapped,
Choose to see the cocoon, open, push out in colors
Not known in this mythical ending
And emerge only two seconds later
Not at all dead.

Jeanne Simonoff
Roaming Writers

Jody Chapel, Altered Synchrony, mixed media, (hot and cold wax, glass flowers, paper pulp), 16 x 12 inches